Amanita Design is a Swedish independent game studio. We focus on creating games that we want to play. About Our Team We had a lot of fun creating this game. The music is by Swedish composer, Peter Dugan. The art and animations are by Adam Mathsson and Fridober. The programming is by Jakob Forsberg and the charachter animation is by Zach Martin. About the Game This game is a short story of choices and consequences. A key word in our team's DNA is about choices, and we think that it is key to all kinds of games. The game is about a young man who brings home a girl he found in a rest stop - during a very dark night. Three months later he's on his way back from a month long summer job. She's waiting for him in the driveway. What happens next will shape his life. We wanted to create a game that reminded us how stories usually play out in our lives, with all the good and bad things that happen to you, with all your choices, good and bad, with all the consequences and flaws. We also wanted to work with real people and their real flaws, that are quite funny even though we don't want to show them to everyone. So we created a game where these quirks and challenges are the main characters. Game features: * A choice-driven game, but lots of choices mean lots of possible consequences, so you will experience lots of impactful consequences and choices.

* Four main characters that you will meet, who are very different, but have some things in common, as well as some quirks. * Lots of funny and easy to understand messages about your personal flaws and weaknesses - we think that it's a part of life, and should be a part of a game. * Get to know all four characters, and learn why they are the way they are. Watch how each of them goes through those three months, and we hope you will think and share some of our thoughts. * Very cinematic, with a strong focus on character. * Music and sound - the music by Swedish composer Peter Dugan is very nice, as well as the sound design. We tried our best to add some very good sound design to the game, even though it's a mobile game. * Beautiful graphics, with lots of details. You'll definitely be able c9d1549cdd

What's new in Soft Wind:

The Anime Studio Simulator (frequently abbreviated as as AS) is a hybrid 3D and 2D graphics program, developed by Bilibili Animation, Bilibili, Inc. and Bilibili Desktop, for Windows and macOS. In terms of software design, AS is a cross-platform 3D software that can be used primarily for digital art creation of anime. The program has the ability to generate static 2D animation and frame-by-frame animation for videos with time control and artistic abilities, in addition to creating sound effects (SFX) as well as generation of animations and other content, such as those associated with a manga and a webtoon. The program itself is very innovative in that only a digital pen and video or a photo can be used, as opposed to drawing in 3D or 2D and uploading to a canvas. Also not all scenes created with AS are limited to 2D or 3D. With the next installment, Anime Studio 4, the program has the ability to do procedural texture/shading and HDR support. However, 3D is still the biggest focus as AS 3.6+ should push the limits more than some other programs of its genre. Character animation is commonplace in VFX for films, and as an art medium that was learned it is more well-known to aspire to emulate as animation, the development of AS has been consistent over the years. Initially, Anime Studio was started as an art and animation program based on Flash software developed to create art pieces as narration for the video and game industry.

Alignment with Japanese animation Some anime series from countries outside of Japan are sometimes cited as inspiration for AS. This might be because of the influence of anime on American animation, the popularity of anime among Western cultures, the possibility of educational certification for works done in AS, and having a reputation of consistency and reliability of the product. Common examples of collaboration include the staff of Bilibili Animation creating the AS logo in collaboration with the logo designer, who is well-known by Japanese animators. Within the animation industry, AS is considered a 2D-styled software that was developed to create animations compliant with Japanese animation standards. As such, it is well-known that AS sometimes uses similar software and filters as Japanese animation. The 2D animation available in AS tends to be styled based on Japanese 2D style and techniques. The quality of digital drawings used in AS is 100% compatible with the Japanese industry standard in the visual arts. Sim
