Where the Fourier transform is the following: In the case where the h variable is 1, it is possible to show that the Gaussian function is the Fourier transform of the Gaussian function: However, when h is greater than 1, it is not possible to obtain a closed form for the Fourier transform. More general than the Gaussian function are the Gaussian functions of the form h^{1-n} and h^{1-n} . These functions are less widely known and are used in the field of microeconomics.
